Shark navigator lift away deluxe bagless vacuum uv440

I am about to write about a vacuum cleaner. Seriously. I've been using a Ridgid Shop Vac for years, ever since the last three vacuum cleaners I owned gave up the ghost, in less than six months each, due to a multiple-pet household. The shop vac does great on the hard floors, not so great on carpeting. And, you cannot vacuum anything that is not nailed down—I almost lost an entire dining table's worth of dishes because the shop vac caught the corner of the tablecloth. Well, no more. I just bought a Shark Navigator Lift-Away Deluxe Upright vacuum cleaner (model number UV440) at Costco. It has a five-year warranty, just like the Dyson, but it costs about one-third the cheapest on-sale Dyson at Costco. And, if anything goes wrong in the next five years, I'm taking it back to Costco for a full refund. It'll be worth keeping my membership for that alone. I just used it to vacuum a narrow swath beside my bed and a very small area between two closets that leads to the bathroom. I had already vacuumed the area with the shop vac, AND I'd squeeged the carpeting to get up all the loose pet hair. Well, the dust cap was filled way beyond capacity, and I can't tell you how disgusting all that stuff is. Oh, and my hands never had to touch the nasty stuff—it just empties right into the trash, unlike the shop vac, which requires major handling to transfer the crap into the trash. So, now I'm going to sprinkle some baking soda over the carpeting, wait a bit, and then go over it a second time. If this vacuum lasts five years, then it's the answer to my prayers. Oh—it even has a HEPA filter, as well as two other filters, all of which (yes, all) are washable! And as far as having to work on nailed-down areas only, this baby has an adjustable suction setting, so I can vacuum throw rugs and dog beds. Dog beds!!! I think I'm in love with this thing. For most homeowners, the shark navigator lift-away deluxe lineup will certainly be more convenient and functional than your traditional upright vacuums, for good reasons. And in the following articles, I'll be showing you exactly why I love these products from the shark navigator lift away deluxe reviews. → RELATED: My Shark Vacuum Won't Turn On - How To Fix At Home Extreme flexibility and convertibility Nowadays, when choosing an upright vacuum model, people not only care about how they perform on floors and carpets, but also when working with the hose and included attachments. In the past, this had been the major downside for upright models when compared to canister models, since people are often stuck with an unstable stationed vacuum unit that's difficult to move around and even stand on its own. But thanks to the innovative Lift-Away technology, the shark navigator lift-away dlx vacuum cleaner lets you turn your regular upright model into a handheld canister model in seconds. As a result, it's super easy for you to clean awkward places like stairs, furniture, or even the ceiling - all of which were pretty impossible for other models. The flexible Lift-Away design let your vacuum work in awkward places Via Amazon Plus, due to the heavy cleaner head design, most upright models are only good for moving back and forth in straight lines. So most homeowners will find it really frustrating to slide their upright vacuum into narrow areas. Hence, by featuring the Swivel Steering feature, the heavy cleaner head becomes extremely flexible and will also act as a strong base to keep the machine upright. Protect your breathing with Anti-Allergen Complete Seal technology The air that surrounds you consist of millions of micro dust particles and allergens, which can cause some serious breathing problems. And it has been pointed out that the air that travels through your vacuum machine during the cleaning processes can be re-distributed into the room, carrying these fine dust and allergens with them. The Anti-Allergen Complete Seal technology protects you from harms Via: Amazon So if you really care about your and your family's health, then it's important to have a vacuum that comes with a HEPA filter, which helps to get rid of 99.97% of micro dust. But this is still not enough, since the polluted air can still escape the machine through the different openings of the machines, which has been clearly shown in my airflow tests with smoke. Hence, you will need the shark navigator lift away deluxe filters, which come in a complete system that prevent all dust from escaping through the HEPA filter and the machine's exterior. Good suction power for all jobs And for homeowners, the impressive suction from the powered motors in your shark navigator lift away deluxe upright vacuum should make it easy for you to complete any job. Feel free to enable the powerful cleaner head and its useful brush roll to pick up dirt and debris on your floors. And the powerful suction will let you make the most of the other attachments when using in the canister mode. As a result, you can comfortably work on cleaning your houses without any trouble. The machine provides great amounts of suction Via: Amazon Best options in the sub $250 price range In the sub $250 range (or even sub $200 with the older models), you won't find any better options than the Shark Navigator Lift Away lineup. Here, the machines come in many different models, each with their own unique features and functions to help you clean your houses quite comfortably. Feel free to choose whichever products interest you and make use of the innovative features to turn your upright machines into a fully-featured house vacuum. And always enjoy the most out of its value, thanks to the affordable pricing. → RELATED: The Best Shark APEX Upright to Buy in 2021: LZ600, LZ601, or LZ602? Proven quality and reliability With the products being out in the market for almost a decade, featuring many users from all over the world, and are still being actively produced by Shark, you must know that this is truly a good lineup. Also, judging from the fact their products are always recommended by most consumers, you can always trust in these Shark Navigator Lift Away when shopping for your house vacuum. Not to mention that the company themselves also provides pretty good warranty policies, up to 5 years for most of their products. Hence, you can always enjoy your peace of mind when spending money on them. Conclusion Despite the fact that all the mentioned models are great for picking up dirt and house debris, I must go for the original NV352, for how it has impacted the vacuum industry and how impressive it is that it holds up until this day. Featuring all the important features that you need to clean both carpets and floors, the machine also lets you work above floors without any troubles, thanks to the Lift-Away technology. And with a complete set of attachments, which you can always expand by getting additional purchases, the machine is undoubtedly the best rated vacuum cleaner. The NV352 is always our best choice Via: Amazon Not to mention that with a massive user-based community, it's not difficult to find the right guides, tips, and replacements for your NV352 machines. Thus, allowing it to be usable right away and for years to come. And of course, the reasonable price is certainly great for a model from this category.
